

Prep for Randolph-Lucas House move underway

Posted on August 2, 2013 By collin Home & Real Estate, IN The Loop

By Dan Whisenhunt

In order to save a historic home, movers are going to split it apart and put it back together again.

Buckhead Heritage Society reports that it does not have a date set for moving the historic Randolph Lucas House from 2500 Peachtree Road to its new address in Ansley Park, but preparations are underway. The brick veneer will have to be removed as part of the relocation process.

“Last week, Complete Demolition Services began interior preparations for the relocation, including removing doors and baseboards on the second floor,” Buckhead Heritage said in an Aug. 1 press release.

“These features have been systematically numbered to facilitate reinstallation. The contractor anticipates removing the brick next week.”

The 1924 home is currently located at the intersection of Peachtree Road and Lindbergh Drive, just north of Peachtree Battle Shopping Center. Noted Atlanta architect P. Thornton Marye designed the Georgian-Revival style home for Hollins Randolph, a great-great-grandson of Thomas Jefferson, based on Randolph's ancestral home near Charlottesville, Va. Margaret Lucas owned the house until her death in 1987.

The house was moved once before – although only a few dozen feet – to make way for the 2500 Peachtree Road condominium project in 1998. The condo association agreed to maintain the home and use it for functions, but the maintenance required quickly became cost-prohibitive and the house fell into disrepair.

Last fall, the 2500 Peachtree Road Condo Association was issued a demolition permit by the city of Atlanta. They offered to give the home away for free if someone could move it to a new location by the end of this summer.

“Although moving a historic building intact is always preferred, partial disassembly is a tried and true preservation approach,” Wright Mitchell, President of Buckhead Heritage, said in a press release. “Our community benefits from two well-known examples of historic buildings, the Tullie Smith Farm and The Estate, formerly known as Anthony's Restaurant, that were dismantled, moved to Buckhead, and reassembled. We look forward to seeing the Randolph-Lucas House return to its former appearance within the compatible streetscape of Ansley Park.”

Collin Kelley contributed to this report.

3

2

Related Posts

Parks and transit in b...

By Han Vance It was a bright...

Holiday art shows offe...

The Work of Our Hands Artists' Market...

Revival of Vintage ret...

Building on the success of its inaugural...

Leave a Reply

Your email address will not be published. Required fields are marked *

Name *

Email *

Website

Comment

You may use these HTML tags and attributes: <abbr title=""> <acronym title=""> <blockquote cite=""> <code>   <q cite=""> <strike>

Post Comment

Notify me of follow-up comments by email.

Notify me of new posts by email.

TRANQUIL

Ansley Park • $1,499,000

VIEW THIS PROPERTY | Atlanta Fine Homes | Sotheby's INTERNATIONAL REALTY

Follow INtown on Twitter

Tweets Follow @ATLINTownPaper

 Atlanta INtown @ATLINTownPaper 21m
RT @CBSAtlanta Mini-Walmart opens on Georgia Tech campus ow.ly/nV4Ab
Expand

 Atlanta INtown @ATLINTownPaper 3h
New article! #fb Theatre Review: 'Hair' at Serenbe Playhouse ow.ly/2z5aGh
Expand

 Atlanta INtown 14h

Tweet to @ATLINTownPaper

 Atlanta INtown
Like 2,252

 Atlanta INtown
Manning Harris went a bit outside the loop to review the much-raved about production of "Hair" down at Serenbe Playhouse.

Theatre Review: 'Hair' at Serenbe Playhouse - Atlanta INtown Paper
www.atlantaintownpaper.co

By Manning Harris
fmanningh@gmail.com So you didn't make it to Woodstock, the legendary "Three Days of Peace and

44 minutes ago

Facebook social plugin

MAJESTIC

Buckhead • $3,900,000

VIEW THIS PROPERTY

Atlanta Fine Homes

Sotheby's INTERNATIONAL REALTY

